

Motivation

Despite the proliferation of issue-tracking tools and workspace platforms, it requires extensive effort to stay aware of the issues a project or team face or have faced. This communication gap not only hampers collaborative efforts but also slows down the team's collective progress.

UpTop is a service that aggregates threads in team-based messaging platforms and provides a weekly newsletter summary to IDEs via our custom extensions. UpTop provides engineering teams a means to quickly get caught up on problems, questions, and progress relating to work items discussed on the platforms. We use machine learning for abstractive text summarization to deliver concise and accurate summaries.
